One thousand dollars or more worth of improvements is to be made this spring to St. Victor's Roman Catholic Church.

This is the first major improvement contemplated since the 'v' building was erected about 45 years ago.

At a recent meeting of the parishoners it was decided to go ahead with the project at once.

Already Mr. Hutton is busy erecting the necessary scaffolding to point the unusually high ceiling. Leo Woods will be in complete charge of this function.

The new wiring program for the entire building will be in the capable hands of Jimmie Ostrom.

The interior walls will be covered with a new type of insulation. The sacristy, the priest's office and other rooms at the rear will receive similar treatment.

Improvements to the basement, begun last year will be completed.

The exterior walls will be covered with insulating likely in the new brick effect.

The roof will be repaired and painted.

At the meeting some ten or twelve members alone pledged cash contributions totaling $800, more if required, as well as volunteer labor to complete the job.

All parish members, friends and supporters will be asked to contribute as best they can to this worth while undertaking.

Mr. G. A. Hutton is secretary of the committee in charge. Mr. Wilfred Plante and Mr. N. T. Percell are the other two members of the organization recently elected.

Rev. Fr. Violini is the priest in charge of the church.

GOOD SEED FOR THIS YEAR

By C. A. WEIR, District Supervisor, Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

There are three factors that govern the desirability of any stock of seed. These are, its purity as to variety, its freedom from weed seed infestation and its ability to grow and produce healthy vigorous plants in the field. While the first two points mentioned are highly important in this and every year, the third point assumes greater importance than usual this year.

This season the germinating ability of seed stocks is more uncertain than has usually been the case. Several types of damage have occurred. Much seed suffered frost damage and great quantities of crop were lost when immature and because of weather conditions never did have an opportunity to dry and "after ripen" thoroughly. Most of our seed stocks are threatened with a high moisture content and has been stored in such a manner that it has had no opportunity to dry.

Before it is ready to germinate rapidly and strongly seed should have dried in the field for a period so that the "after ripening" process is complete. If threshed in the fall after a warm dry period and otherwise undamaged it will usually germinate satisfactorily. This season much seed has also suffered from frost damage. This will also lower the germination. If the frost damage was severe it may have destroyed the germination completely.

Tough or damp grain usually will not germinate satisfactorily until it has been dried in fairly warm temperatures.

Some helpful measures may be taken by the grower to improve the content of tough seed prior to planting. Not enough is known about artificial drying of seed to make recommendations except to say that if such a method is followed the seed should be dried slowly at temperatures not much above those of a hot summer's day.

ovement of the seed will help to some extent. To shovel it over on a mild day, and to spread it moderately thinly in a dry granary will help reduce the moisture content and likely help to break the dormancy that damp or tough seed has.

Seed that is very damp, or that has been heavily frozen will probably not be satisfactory at all. If planted it is unlikely to produce a good field stand.

The logical procedure is to test each lot of seed for germination, and if the results are below 75 per cent to endeavor to secure a better stock.

WANTED—MORE PEOPLE

That Canada needs more people, few will dispute. We have vast empty spaces, even vaster spaces sparsely settled, great natural resources as yet undeveloped, a way of life that is second to none. We have so much and there are so many millions of people in the world who have no like.

Last year the largest number of immigrants in years reached our shores. Contrary to dire predictions we have absorbed these new Canadians. There has been no increase in unemployment as a result of their coming. Native-born Canadians have not lost jobs to them except in isolated instances. Instead this flow of new people to Canada has helped to develop new jobs benefiting native and new Canadians alike.

More and new Canadians mean a larger domestic market for our goods. More people with more skills and ideas will help to develop our resources and to carry the burden of overhead necessary to run the country. We have roads and railways and government ample for a much larger population than the fourteen million Canadians who live in this great land.

We must bring in more and more people, suitable people, to Canada and share with them all the benefits of our nation. We must, too, do what we can to make the newcomers good, loyal Canadians in the shortest possible time.

If Canada is to fulfill her destiny more people are needed. We must open our gates a little wider to make it possible for them to come to dwell with us.

In the early days of French Canada each colonist was responsible for maintaining the road before his farm in good shape.

So much for one paste common to all.

Town Election Results Monday

Monday was election day for two councillors for the town of Gleichen.

R. K. Hunter and U. A. Jones were elected. Mr. Hunter has been on the council for many years and his re-election showed the townspeople approved of his work on the council for Mr. Jones it was his first term on the council.

Following are the results of the voting:

R. K. Hunter 65; U. A. Jones 56; A. Plante 50; C. P. Evans 47.

There were 115 votes cast 6 of which were spoiled.

The cockery world, and now attention might be interestingly directed to another edible paste, perhaps not often referred to as such, since this family of pastes is best known by the individual names given its members—macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, and vermicelli. Granted, it may be difficult to think of these hard, dry foods as pastes, and it might be better if they were called dried or dehydrated pastes, which more accurately describes them.

Although there is some difference of opinion as to their country of origin, these dried pastes have been associated with Italy for a very long time, and are still one of the staple foods of that country. The art of making pastes spread to many lands where wheat and water were available in abundance and so it is natural to find that these foods are being made in Canada. Here, in short, is how they are made. Wheat, such as Durum which is rich in the gluten needed to maintain the shape of the paste, is milled into granular meal known as semolina or middlings. This meal, moistened with a small portion of boiling water, is thoroughly mixed in a kneading machine into a stiff dough. The dough then goes into a large steam-jacketed cylinder fitted with a plunger and, under great pressure, the paste is forced out of the bottom of the cylinder through small holes of various sizes and shapes. A steel pin in the centre of each hole gives macaroni its hollow shape. Shagbetti emerges from small holes, and vermicelli from very small holes both with hollows. Flat openings give ribbon like noodles, while macaroni shells, and bow knots are squeezed out of the cylinder through holes of these fancy shapes. The next step is to retain the shape of the paste as it comes from the cylinder, and this is done by thorough drying. In hot countries like Italy this is accomplished in a very natural way, out of doors by the heat of the sun; but in this country the drying must be done in heated rooms in the factory. When thoroughly dried the pastes are ready for packaging or for marketing in bulk.

Immigration Policy

MOST CANADIANS ARE AWARE that the population has increased greatly through immigration in the years since the war. Actually more than 500,000 immigrants have come to Canada since 1945. Of these, 193,775 were from the United Kingdom, 108,000 from Northern Europe, nearly 50,000 from the United States and 208,240 from other countries. It has recently been announced that in the first eleven months of 1951, 174,000 immigrants arrived in Canada from other countries. This was the largest number to come in any one year since 1913 when there was a record total of 400,000 immigrants. It was expected that in 1951 the number would reach about 150,000, but that figure was exceeded, and a further 20,000 residents of Great Britain were awaiting passage to Canada at the end of the year.

Have Filled Many Needs

Many of the newcomers are skilled workers, some having been brought here by industries to fill needs for personnel in plants and factories. Others have come to work on construction projects, to go on the land or to find work in the cities. Whatever their callings, these new citizens have helped to swell Canada's population to 14,000,000 and have filled many needs for additional workers across the country. Immigration authorities report that the majority of these people travelled to this country on their own resources or with the help of the Canadian government under a program inaugurated to encourage immigration to Canada.

Fit Into Life Here

Some interesting facts regarding Canada's post-war immigration policy are contained in the last edition of the Canada Year Book. The policy is summed up as being "to ensure the careful selection and permanent settlement in Canada of such immigrants as can be absorbed advantageously into the national economy." There is growing need for skilled workers in Canada's expanding industries and on the farms, and it is expected that there will again be a large number of immigrants entering Canada in the coming year. Arrangements have already been made to provide facilities for air and sea transportation for many from the United Kingdom. No estimates have yet been given for the coming year, but the present general policy will be continued and no doubt a large number of new citizens will be absorbed into the life of the country as the year progresses. The last great period of immigration, which took place in the years just before the first World War, was at a time of rapid expansion in Canada and it would appear that the high rate of immigration at the present time is also accompanying a period of rapid development, perhaps greater than that which took place in the early years of the present century.

Big Milk Shortage Feared By 1955

EDMONTON.—A top Canadian dairyman said that if the trend toward reduced dairy production continues until 1955 Canada will be short 1,000,000 pounds of milk or the production of at least 300,000 cows in that year.

Eric Kitchen of Woodstock, Ont., secretary-manager of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, gave this estimate at the convention of the Alberta Dairywomen's Association, which opened here.

Mr. Kitchen said Canada has fallen from its position as a large exporter of dairy production to the point where the last year's crop produced enough for our own needs.

He blamed unfavorable financial returns and said that this is leading farmers to sell their cattle at current high beef prices.

Funny and Otherwise

A man had been talking for hours about himself and his achievements.

"I'm a self-made man that's what you call a self-made man," he said.

"You knocked off work too soon," came a quiet voice from the corner.

"How is it that you are late this morning?" the clerk was asked by his employers.

"I overslept," was the reply.

"What? Do you sleep at home as well?" inquired the employer.

"The class had been on Eskimos, and were asked to write an account of it. One bright youngster began: "The Eskimos are God's frozen people."

"Bill—You know, your wife is a little bit out of dress when she was a few years ago before you married her."

"What? I don't see why not. She wears the same clothes now that she had then."

"What," someone asked a parson, "do you mean by 'will you do for me'?"

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the startled candidate. "What will I do if I'm not?"

A poleman in a southern town entered the lodge hall and was confronted by the dark, stern Strutters, confronted the portly secretary and said: "What's this I hear about you threatening to carve Batus Jackson up with a knife?"

"Batus Jackson," echoed the gawking secretary. "Why, all I done told him was dat ef'n he didn't pay his lodge dues I was goin' to dismember him."

Mrs. Dumbly was waiting to be served in the shoe shop. Presently a girl assistant approached her.

"What size shoe do you wear, madam?" she inquired.

"Well," said Mrs. Dumbly, "I bought size four last time."

"The girl looked puzzled. 'Yes, madam, I remember,' she replied; 'but you're buying this pair for yourself, aren't you?'"

"I understand you have a very economical wife."

"Oh yes. We have to go without practically everything I need."

The doctor came out of the bedroom to the anxious wife. "Frankly," he said, "I don't like the way your husband looks at all."

"I don't either," the wife said. "But he's nice to the kids."

A small child was explaining to her younger brother that it was wrong to work on Sunday.

"But what about policemen?" said the boy. "They have to work on Sunday. Don't they go to heaven?"

"Of course not," replied his sister. "They're not needed there."

Farmers' Civil Defence Job

OTTAWA.—Civil defence officials say Canadian farmers and residents of rural areas have a "big job" in the nation's civil defence set-up as city dwellers. The people of "Canada's open spaces will have to do more than three main jobs in event of war.

(1) Take care of evacuees and injured from bombed cities.

(2) Help nearby cities to recover from air raids.

(3) Stop enemy agents from destroying or damaging crops.

"Rural areas may be relatively immune to bombing, but they can expect trouble just as devastating in its effects as any that cities may suffer," the civil defence experts said.

Old-Timer Recalls Days Of Wild And Woolly West

HAMILTON.—The wild and woolly west was never as wild and woolly as it is pictured in the movies, says Jim Firky, one of the last surviving Canadian pony express riders. At 93, Uncle Jim, as he is affectionately known to his neighbors, likes to recall the many years he spent out west as a young man. He especially likes to reminisce about his pony express days.

Those were the days when he used to carry the mail from Fort Qu'Appelle to Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, a 600-mile round trip which took two weeks on horseback.

Most of the time the trip was uneventful he says. There was a change of horses every 50 miles and no particular trouble with the Indians. However, times were different during the rioting.

On one occasion he had reached Humboldt, his halfway mark, and was setting out for Balchou where

Louis Riel and his followers were encamped, when he met up with an army scout. The scout warned him about rebels and they both turned around and headed back for Humboldt.

They had gone only a little way when four rebels appeared from nowhere and took after them. "We whipped our horses and slowly pulled away," he can still see those bullets kicking up dust around us," says Firky.

During the Riel disturbances the army carried the mails from Humboldt west, after Firky took it that far.

Before riding for the pony express, Firky worked on the express run between Qu'Appelle and Fort Qu'Appelle, a distance of 21 miles. He was on that run two years before going to the pony express.

Other titles which devolve on him are Duke of Rothesay, Earl of Carrick, Baron of Renfrew, Lord of the Isles and Prince and Great Steward of Scotland.

Although the chubby little prince automatically becomes heir apparent to the throne, he will not become Prince of Wales immediately. This must wait until his mother decides to invest him with the title.

Princess Margaret would act as regent should a regency become necessary during the minority of Prince Charles.

Grain Drying Crews May Enter Canada

OTTAWA.—U.S. grain drying crews may bring their equipment into Canada duty free until June 30, 1952, National revenue department officials said.

An order has gone out from the department to customs officials at ports of entry in western Canada announcing that because of the damp grain situation on the prairies, drying equipment and crews would be allowed to enter Canada under temporary admission orders, without a deposit or bond.

Department officials also indicated that any farmers who brought commercial grain dryers into Canada earlier this winter under the government's pro-rata duty plan, will now be eligible to have any duty they had remitted.

Last Nov. 21, Hon. J. McCann, revenue minister, outlined a plan in the commons, whereby commercial dryers could be brought in by individual farmers on a six-month temporary basis, by paying one-sixth of the duty ordinarily payable, for each day the dryers remained in Canada. Minimum payment was $25 in each case, and the understanding was that the dryers were being leased, rented, not purchased outright.

It was learned that the cabinet later changed its view about this, and because of the seriousness of the situation are now prepared to consider remitting any duty which may have been paid by any farmer under the above plan. The revenue department has no record of how many dryers were brought in under the pro-rata duty scheme.

Still HAVE WANDELUST The Family Allowance Administration said Canadians with children under 16 years of age apparently still have a great deal of their ancestors' wandelust. Approximately 36,000 of the 1,800,000 families receiving family allowance cheques report changes of address each month.
